Pat graduated from Marquette University in Milwaukee, Wisconsin with a degree in civil engineering along with a commission in the US Navy, in which he served three years. He received his MBA in 1957 from St. Louis University while working for IBM. He also worked in New York City for a business consulting firm, as well as in Silicon Valley for Fairchild and National Semiconductor from which he retired in 1992. After St. Louis they lived in New Jersey; Barrington, Illinois; Palos Verdes and then in Saratoga for 43 years.

They have four children (two boys and two girls) and six grandchildren (three and three) who all live in the Bay Area or Sacramento. She was an avid tennis player, and now enjoys gardening, cooking and fitness classes. Pat spends his spare time on woodworking projects. Their favorite trips have been to Hong Kong, Singapore, Italy and Israel. Their greatest joy is holiday gatherings with their family.
